Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 14 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Sleet and snow dying out, turning icy.

This Evening and Tonight:
Rain, sleet and snow slowly dying out. Remaining cloudy for many but turning frosty in places with some icy surfaces and a few freezing fog patches.

Friday:
Low cloud and freezing fog patches will be slow to clear, perhaps persisting in a few places. Some sunny spells, especially in the north and west. Cold for most.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Rain moving east on Saturday, with snow likely for a time across parts of the north and east. Sunday and Monday showers in the north, dry in the south.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.